Disney World is a place where you can have fun and see many interesting things. When you go there, you can see some special traffic signs on the roads. They are not green and white like common signs. They are purple and red, and they look very nice. Do you know what they mean?

These signs are designed for Disney World only. They help you go to different places in the Disney's theme parks, resorts, and more. When you follow these signs, you can have a new Disney adventure every time.

The signs have these colors for a reason. These signs was made by Deborah Sussman in 1989. She was asked by Disney World to make signs that were different from the real world and easy to read. She thought of Mickey Mouse, who has black, red, and yellow colors.

Some signs have Mickey Mouse ears too! The purple versions were popular with their fans.

The signs are purple because purple is better than black at night. You can see them more clearly. Some people also say that purple is a good complementary color to yellow. Just like red is the color opposite to green. But the truth is we won't really know why. What we do know is that Disney has done a great job of making itself the happiest place on earth!

“Everything Everywhere All at Once” was a big winner in Oscar. The actress, Michelle Yeoh, made history as the first Asian woman to win Best Actress in Hollywood. At the same time, Ke Huy Quan got the Best Supporting Actor Award.

Michelle Yeoh said, “Ladies, don’t ever let anyone tell you that you are past your prime.” She added, “For all the little boys and girls who look like me watching tonight, this is a beacon of hope and possibilities.” Being a famous actress in Asia for years, Yeoh didn’t get the chance to play a lead role in a Hollywood movie until the age of 59. And she is the first Asian actor to win the Best Actress Oscar.

The other 51-year-old actor, Ke Huy Quan, won the Best Supporting Actor Award. “My journey started on a boat,” said Quan. “I spent a year in a refugee camp and somehow I ended up here on Hollywood’s biggest stage. They say stories like this only happen in the movies. I cannot believe it’s happening to me. This is the American dream. Dreams are something that you have to believe in,” he added. “I almost gave up on mine. To all of you out there, please keep your dreams alive.”
