Dr. White: Hey guys, today let’s talk about what animals eat. Do you have any pets?

Jimmy: Yes, I have two pets, a dog and a horse!

Dr. White: Good. Some animals eat meat. A meat eater is called a carnivore.

Carnivores have sharp, pointed teeth.

Jimmy: My dog, Pepper, is a carnivore. Right? He uses his sharp teeth to eat meat.

Dr. White: That’s right. And some animals eat plants. We call these animals herbivores.

Herbivores have flat and wide teeth.

Jimmy: How about those animals eating both meat and plants?

Dr. White: They are called omnivores. They have sharp and flat teeth.

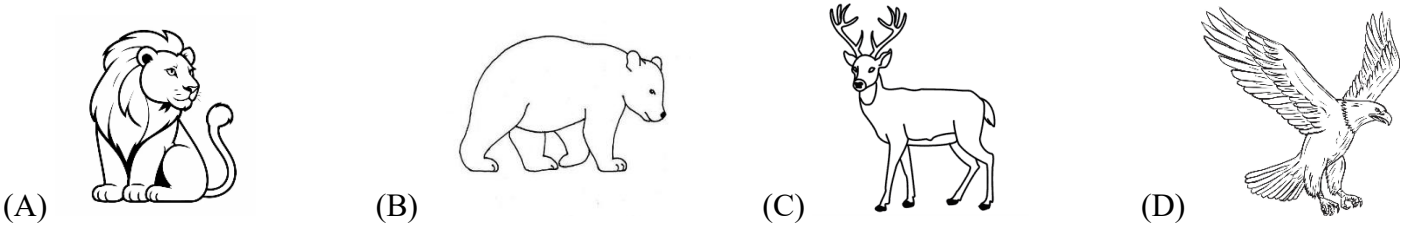

Jimmy: Like me!

Dr. White: Exactly! Humans are omnivores. Look at our teeth! They are sharp but also flat.
