Future Meat

Student number: 80735

Name: James Wang

Date: 2024/3/15

There are more and more people on earth, and we need more meat. By taking cells from animals and growing them in labs, Dr. Mark Post and his team can grow lab meat. How do people feel about it?

• This sounds like a good idea.

① Tommy (40 years old, a teacher): Growing lab meat is more friendly to the environment. It doesn't create greenhouse gas, but raising animals does.

② Kiki (32 years old, a waitress): Some people don't eat beef. Some people don't like the smell of pork. Having another choice sounds good!

• This sounds like a bad idea.

① Justin (61 years old, a fisherman): Lab meat is cleaner and better for the earth. So people may buy more lab meat than real meat from farmers. Then, living becomes more and more difficult for farmers! Poor farmers!

② Emma (28 years old, a clerk): This new thing must cost a lot more money and energy than raising animals on a farm. Then, lab meat will have to be more expensive than real meat. This is only for richer people in richer countries. How can poor people or people in poor countries get more meat?

 choice 選擇 energy 能源

31. What question might James ask these people? (A) What do cells look like? (B) Does your job sound like a good one? Why or why not? (C) How does lab meat taste? (D) Does growing lab meat sound like a good idea? Why or why not?
32. What is the answer to Emma's idea? (A) Helping farmers raise animals faster. (B) Having fewer and fewer farmers in the world. (C) Trying to sell lab meat at lower prices. (D) Making lab meat less clean and less good for the earth.
33. What CAN'T we know? (A) Kiki raises animals on the farm. (B) Dr. Mark Post grows lab meat with a group (群) of people. (C) James Wang is a student. (D) Justin is older than Tommy.
